THE RELIGIOUS AFFILIATIONS OF COLLEGE STUDENTS

We report here the religious affiliations of students in 326 colleges. This study is to be taken as a companion study of the one published in the June issue of CHRISTIAN EDUCATION which dealt with the religious affiliations of students in tax supported colleges and universities. The fundamental fact that the great mass of the students in American colleges and universities claim church affiliation is involved in this publication although no effort is made to throw new light on that subject. That is recognized as one of the educational axioms. From the present tabulation the actual expressions of preference among the leading denominations may be traced. No effort has been made to distinguish between actual church membership and denominational preference since the available data do not allow of trustworthy discriminations in this regard.

Dr. Frank W. Padelford has called attention to the fact that on the basis of this showing it may be estimated that the Presbyterians have one student to 39 church members, the Congregationalists one to 46, the Methodists one to 64, and the Baptists one to 95 (Northern Convention).

Undoubtedly many other uses will be made of these tables on the part of officers and friends of our colleges.
